DECISION AWARDED TO UNITED STATES.

America Wins Her Contentions in the Alaskan Boundary Dispute.

Canada Secures Only One Point, That in Regard to the Portland Canal.

LONDON, Oct. 17.—The Alaskan boundary commission has verbally agreed to grant all the American contentions except that for the Portland canal, which goes to Canada. The formal agreement is being drawn up and will be rendered on Monday.

The successful termination of the Alaskan boundary arbitration this afternoon came as a complete surprise to all interested in the case, except perhaps the commissioners themselves. When the tribunal adjourned at 3:30 o'clock it was understood that no decision had been reached. Indeed so general was the impression that no decision would be reached until next week that several of the counsel and others employed in the case left London soon after the adjournment. However, the Associated Press learned that a vote had been taken, and that the decision to grant all the American contentions except that for the Portland canal, which goes to Canada, had been arrived at. But, as cabled yesterday, while the Americans throughout have been very confident, no vote had previously been taken, and no one could before this afternoon say that the United States had won her case.

OF NO SPECIAL IMPORTANCE.

Canada's Possession of Tearse Island, in Portland Canal.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—The Associated Press bulletin from London, announcing the decision of the Alaskan boundary commission, was the first intimation received by the State Department that the commission had reached an agreement. Although the bulletin from London is exceedingly brief, State Department officials say that it shows a distinct victory for the United States. It is their opinion that the effect of the decision regarding the Portland canal merely gives to Canada the possession of Tearse Island, a small island in the Portland canal, and of no special importance. This detail of the controversy is admitted by State Department officials to have been open to argument on both sides.

WILL CLOSE TONIGHT.

Senator Hanna Addresses National Civic Federation Conference.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—United States Senator Mark Hanna presided at today's session of the National Civic Federation conference. The conference ends tonight, and it is not considered unlikely that before adjournment recommendations advising labor organizations and employers' associations to use the greatest conservatism from now on, in view of present industrial conditions, will be adopted. An executive session, at which probably the advisability of making some such recommendation, will, it is announced, be held.

Ex-Judge Waterman, of the local branch of the federation, introduced Senator Hanna, president of the National Civic Federation. Mr. Hanna spoke of the importance of the work engaged in, and the success in bringing together capital and labor, which at first seemed to him impossible.

TO COST $40,000,000.

Plans for a Canal to Connect Providence and Worcester.

WORCESTER, Mass., Oct. 17.—Officials of the American Steel & Wire Company, part of the United States Steel Corporation, have plans drawn for the construction of a canal between this city and Providence. The estimated cost is $19,000,000 and it will be a difficult engineering feat. For the new water route, a greater part of the 50 miles, the old Blackstone Valley canal will be dredged and utilized. It was 60 years ago that the canal was abandoned and a railroad built to take its place. The plans also call for the construction of a gigantic water shed just outside the city to supply water for the canal, thus making the use of locks unnecessary.

Several big mills in the various towns will lose their power under the new plan and several million dollars will be used to pay land damages. The officials of the Steel combine will visit Worcester next Tuesday, when the plan will be considered in detail. If the canal plans are carried out the big Worcester plant will be greatly enlarged; otherwise, it is claimed there will be an extensive curtailment.

TATTERED FLAGS BORNE BY VETERANS.

War Relics Transferred to New State House.

Crowds Throng the Streets in Providence.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 17.—Escorted by the Brigade of Rhode Island Militia, and by various regiments, batteries and patriotic societies, the Civil and Spanish-American war veterans to the number of over 3,000 men today transferred to the new marble state capitol building the battle flags and other relics of the Revolutionary, Civil and Spanish-American wars. The day had been declared by the governor to be a legal holiday, and as a great many business houses and manufacturing establishments suspended operations, the streets were thronged with people. The buildings along the line of march were gaily decorated with the national colors and the passage of the veterans was greeted everywhere with cheers. The cannon used by the Rhode Island soldiers at the battle of Gettysburg was drawn in the procession.

The military made an elaborate display and the line of march was nearly a mile in length. It was reviewed by Governor L. F. C. Garvin and his staff. On reaching the state house, the formation was completed, and at a given command President W. H. P. Faunce of Brown university stepped to the front and offered prayer. The formal transfer exercises commenced when former Governor Charles Warren Lippitt, on behalf of the Revolutionary war veterans, presented the two Revolutionary flags to Governor Garvin. The historic relics were folded about their staffs to preserve them intact, so badly tattered was their condition. Marshal Elisha H. Rhodes presented the flags from the Civil and Spanish-American wars. Governor Garvin received the treasured relics on behalf of the state.

General Horatio Rogers delivered the oration, in which he paid a glowing tribute to the men who struggled under the flags, today reposed in the care of the state, to make secure their country's honor.

The battle flag committee, members of the legislature and invited guests assembled in the dining hall where luncheon was served. The exercises came to a close when the flags were stored away in the vaults until the receptacles prepared for them on either side of the main entrance are completed.

LABORERS KILLED AND HURT.

Work Train Run Into From the Rear Near Trenton, N. J.

TRENTON, N. J., Oct. 17.—Fifteen persons were killed and about 40 injured in a collision today on the Belvidere division of the Pennsylvania railroad near Washington crossing. They were laborers who were on a work train and were on their way to Washington crossing to repair washouts along the road. Fourteen bodies have been taken from the wreck, and one more body is known to be under the debris. Only two or three of those who are injured will be permanently maimed.

As soon as the collision occurred a special train was sent from Trenton with a corps of physicians, and the dead and injured were brought to the city. The dead men, with one or two exceptions, are Italian laborers, who resided in this city, the others being negroes.

The train bearing the men was made up of four cars, two coaches, in which the men were riding, and two flat cars in the rear. The train stopped near Washington crossing to receive orders respecting the passing of the regular passenger train. While the train was standing on the track it was run into from the rear by a gravel train. The two flat cars telescoped the two coaches.

About 180 men were in the two cars. As soon as the accident happened the Italians became frantic, and made an attempt to do bodily harm to the crew of the gravel train. Word was sent to Trenton for police assistance, but the men were finally quieted by the foremen.

The railroad authorities here are reticent as to how the accident occurred, but it is believed that the gravel train either failed to see any adverse signal or the flagman of the first train failed to go back a sufficient distance.

WILL NOT YIELD ESSENTIAL POINTS

Japan-Russia Negotiations Not Progressing.

Settlement of Hostilities Probable Before December.

BERLIN, Oct. 17.—The negotiations between Japan and Russia, according to the view of the situation taken here, are not making much progress. Each side, it appears from official information, will not yield on the essential propositions. Japan persists in requiring an agreement that shall now define their respective spheres of supremacy, and declines to consent to the general policy of "drift" under which Russian influence will, the Japanese say, steadily bear upon Corea and edge forward until the time is ripe for acquiring a part of or the whole country.

Japan, as previously cabled from here, is determined, according to the German view, to have a settlement with Russia by a treaty whereto they both must abide or else—and the threat is ever in the near background—hostilities will begin. This is the danger in plain view. The Japanese government seemingly makes no particular concealment from the diplomatic corps at Pekin of this attitude, one impression being that Japan is merely playing a diplomatic game and another that the government is in deadly earnest.

Russia's ever increasing military preparations and Japan's nearly completed equipments are regarded as pointing either to a settlement before December or to hostilities. Japan's orders for war material were placed in Germany a year ago, and since then have all been delivered or are afloat. Four Japanese officers who have been buying war material and supervising artillery construction at Essen left Germany for Japan last Tuesday.

Ambassador McCormick has returned here from London.

BELLICOSE RUMORS CONTINUE.

Reports of Russian Aggression in Corea Said to Have Been Exaggerated.

YOKOHAMA, Oct. 17.—A cabinet minister says that Japan, agreeing with the Marquis Ito, while stipulating the integrity of Corean and Chinese sovereignty, makes no point of the military evacuation of Manchuria, thus simplifying the negotiations. The bellicose rumors continue, but the reports of Russian aggression in Corea are proving to have been exaggerated.

The ceremony today was very simple and attended only by immediate relatives.

GENERAL FUNSTON'S REPORT.

General Review of Conditions in the Department of the Columbia.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 17.—General Frederick Funston, in his report on the Department of the Columbia, gives a general review of the conditions existing in the department, which includes the Pacific Northwest and Alaska. As the result of a personal tour of Alaska during the summer, General Funston suggests that a different station be found for the troops at Valdez because a mountain 2,000 feet high lies just south of the post, which shuts off the sun for a large portion of the day. At Fort Egbert, which is near the Arctic circle, he found that the officers had a cultivated garden in which they raised their own vegetables. He says the question of maintaining all the military posts in Alaska is one requiring more knowledge of the policy and intentions of the government than is vouchsafed a department commander before it can be intelligently dealt with.

At four of the posts on the military telegraph line all the available force is needed to maintain the line. He recommends that Fort Davis, near Nome, be abandoned, as military authority is not needed there. The people of the community, numbering about 10,000, are not turbulent, and most of them, in case of necessity, could be called upon to support the civil authorities.

General Funston speaks in high terms of the signal corps, which has constructed the military telegraph line in Alaska. He recommends that a large tract of land at American lake, near Tacoma, Washington, be acquired for the purpose of a drill ground and camp for concentration in case of war.

DEMOCRATS HAVE LIVELY TILT.

Rush to File Nomination Papers Results in Bruised Heads.

BOSTON, Oct. 17.—The rush to file Democratic nomination papers in the municipal campaign, when the offices of the city committee opened today, was accompanied with a lively tilt between opposing factions. Glass was broken, hats battered and heads bruised, in the crush of those who wished to be first in filing papers, in order to have their names appear in favorable positions on the ballot. The confusion was over in a few minutes, although some of those who participated had spent all night on the steps waiting for the door to open today.

CHANGE FROM THE POLICY OF LEO.

New Pope Favors Revival of Old-Time Religions.

Text of the First Eneyclical of Pius.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 16.—The text of the first encyclical of Pope Pius X reached Washington today. It is dated at Rome, October 4. The document will be read by Catholics and non-Catholics alike with intense interest, as it reveals the personality of the new Pope as a written composition seldom pictures the mind of its author.

After detailing his sense of grief and reluctance to take the papacy Pope Pius X. pays an eloquent tribute to his predecessor. He then proclaims his own policy as follows:

"Since, however, it has been pleasing to the divine will to raise our lowliness to such sublimity of power we take courage in Him who strengthens us, and setting ourself to work, relying on the power of God, we proclaim that we have no other program in the supreme pontificate but that 'of restoring all things in Christ,' so that 'Christ may be all in all.' Some will certainly be found who, measuring divine things by human standards, will seek to discover secret aims of ours, distorting them to an earthly scope and to partisan designs. To eliminate all vain delusions for such we say to them, with emphasis, that we do not wish to be, and with the divine assistance never shall be, sought before human society but the minister of God of whose authority we are the depositary. Hence, should any one ask of us a symbol as the expression of our will, we will give this and no other: 'To renew all things in Christ.'"

The pontiff then deplores what he terms apostasy from God, and says:

"When all this is considered there is good reason to fear lest this great perversity may be as it were a foretaste and perhaps the beginning of those evils which are reserved for the last days; and that there may be already in the world the 'son of perdition,' of whom the apostle speaks. Such in truth is the audacity and wrath employed everywhere in persecuting religion, in combatting the dogmas of the faith, in brazen effort to uproot and destroy all relations between man and the divinity. While, on the other hand, and, according to the same apostle, this is the distinguishing mark of anti-Christ, man has with infinite temerity put himself in the place of God, raising himself above all that is called God, in such wise that although he cannot utterly extinguish in himself all knowledge of God, he has condemned God's majesty, and as it were made of the universe a temple, where he himself, man, is to be adored, 'he sitteth in the temple of God showing himself as if he were God.'"

Pope Pius X intimates that priests must be apostles first and scholars afterward. He exhorts the bishops to regard their seminaries for the training of their priests as "the delights of their hearts," and to be careful of the selecting of candidates. He then specifies generally his theories, and in this he reacts strongly from the policies of Pope Leo, or rather reflects them at a different angle, saying:

"This does not prevent us from esteeming worthy of all praise those young priests who dedicate themselves to useful studies in every branch of learning, the better to prepare themselves to defend the truth and refute the calumnies of the enemies of the faith, yet we cannot conceal, nay we proclaim in the most open manner possible, that our preference is and ever will be for those, who, while cultivating ecclesiastic and literary erudition, dedicate themselves more closely to the welfare of souls through the exercise of those ministries proper to a priest zealous for the divine glory."

Ecclesiastical critics already say that the policy of Pope Leo XIII of spending thousands of dollars for biblical research and erudite groupings into the past will be abandoned for the purpose of uniting all in a general revival of old-time fervid religion for the sake of religion and not for its scientific aspects. The Pope, in conclusion, exhorts all, bishops, clergy and laity, to unite for the ends which he has in view.

The encyclical indicates that the bishops created by Pope Pius will be more known for their religious work than for their learning or science.

FOR FREE FOOD.

Duke of Devonshire Accepts Presidency of New League.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—The Duke of Devonshire, late lord president of the council, has conditionally accepted the presidency of the Free Food League, which is organizing a campaign against the fiscal policy of Chamberlain and Balfour. This important move developed tonight at the meeting of the parliamentary committee of the league, when a letter from the Duke of Devonshire to Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Mr. Ritchie's predecessor as chancellor of the exchequer, was read, in substance as follows:

"Dear Beach: You informed me when we last met that the wish had been expressed that I join the league and take a leading part in its operations. I understand that the principal object of the league is to oppose the new departure in the fiscal policy, which now has been definitely announced, and which includes the taxation of food imports from foreign countries and preferential treatment for the colonies, as well as a general tariff on imported manufactured goods. I understand that these objects do not involve opposition to the policy of the government. In so far as that policy is limited to reserving to the government the right of proposing to Parliament tariff legislation for the purpose of negotiating commercial treaties and the mitigation of hostile tariffs."

After referring to the desirability of restraining "the strongly protectionist tendencies manifested at the recent conference at Sheffield," he says the duty of combatting before the country the doctrines of the tariff reform league should not be left entirely to radicals and members of the Cobden Club.

The duke says he cannot reject the invitation of the Free Food League to become its president, although he must accept that office conditionally upon his being consulted as to the extension of its operations, it being also understood that such services as he could render can only be limited in character. He adds:

"It is 17 years since I took an active part in the campaign against home rule. It is not in my power to take the same active part now that I took then. It is with some reluctance that I consent to even this limited part in the present controversy, but I feel that many Unionist members of Parliament, whose ideas I believe agree with mine, are making great sacrifices in order to maintain their opinions, and I am unwilling that they should regard me as indifferent to their political interests."

The committee unanimously accepted the duke's conditions and so notified him.

Mr. Ritchie, late chancellor of the exchequer, and Lord George Hamilton, late secretary of state for India, have also joined the league.

Lord Goschen, who was chancellor of the exchequer in Lord Salisbury's second administration, delivered a strong speech in London tonight against the taxation of food, saying that France and Germany had begun with small taxes on wheat, which had risen rapidly with the agrarian demand with the result that in Great Britain the price of wheat is about 7 shillings less per quarter than in Germany, and from 8 to 12 shillings below the price in France.

He said there was no guarantee that the colonies would be satisfied with the small tax proposed, and might demand an increase. Then would be friction, and the renewed cry that the empire was endangered to justify the concession of the increased demand.

As to the prospect of workmen being better paid under the proposed plan, Lord Goschen showed that wages in Germany were 20 per cent lower than in Great Britain.

JAPAN LANDING TROOPS.

Sends Soldiers to Pingfang Outlet and Hakodate.

LONDON, Oct. 16.—The Morning Post correspondent says that on his arrival at Weihaiwei from Chefoo he was trustworthily informed that Japan has landed troops at Pingfang outlet.

It is currently reported that the conference between the Russian and Japanese authorities has been futile. The Japanese government is known to have formulated certain demands, from which it will not recede. The nature of the Japanese demands is not known here yet, but a point has been reached in which Russia will have to give way or face the probability of Japanese action.

Following upon a meeting of Japan's naval officers comes news from the Daily Mail's Hakodate correspondent that 100,000 men are concentrated about that place. Hakodate is the port which would be used in the event of an expedition against Vladivostock, which is one of the two Russian bases in the Far East.

A telegram from Chefoo states that

KILLED IN A FIGHT.

Death of Sarafoff, Head of the Macedonian Insurgents, Confirmed.

SALONICA, European Turkey, Oct. 16.—The report of the death of Boris Sarafoff, the famous Macedonian leader, is confirmed. He was killed October 12 in a skirmish at Pruva.

Boris Sarafoff was the life and soul of the insurgent operations in Macedonia. He was popularly believed to be the real instigator of the abduction of Miss Ellen M. Stone, the American missionary, in 1901, in order to procure, through her ransom, funds to aid the Macedonian revolutionary committee.

Since 1896 he had headed nearly 400 daring raids into Turkey. Once he captured the Turkish town of Melnik with 40 men, putting the garrison to flight. He was once before reported to have been killed. He was only 30 years old.

IN THE GOOD DAYS OF OCTOBER.

[Cleveland Press.]

If ever you lived on a farm you were glad when the days of October came. Take a look at the frost-tinted leaves of the first maple tree and think of the days of boyhood. They were golden days. Memory is so kind that she colors even sorrow and brings a smile, and makes you realize that the great happiness in the life of a human being almost always comes during youth.

Things haven't changed down on the farm. There is the spot where, under the warm rays of an October sun, you curled up and watched the clouds and imagined things. Romance filled your soul, and you saw ships, giants, mountains, all drifting lazily far above a boy on a farm.

Away over yonder there had been a mighty battle, and a field was dotted with cannon balls. Of course, they were pumpkins, but a mind can do much on an October day. Back of the house there were barrels of cider. The open barn doors revealed a haymow bursting with grasses. You knew that the corn crib was full, and the cellar, too. Up the lane crawled a creaking wagon, filled with hard greenings or the russets that would be hidden in a dark corner for spring eating. And then away over in the haze was a kaleidoscope of color. It was more brilliant than the shawl that a sailor uncle brought back from China. It was a riot of nature's painting, for the frost had touched the woods and made them beautiful.

How still it was! A thousand things that had chirped, warbled, sung, rasped and twittered the summer away were silent, preparing for the great change that begins in October. You were almost afraid. The world was so big and a small boy so small. What if the sky should fall! And if it did, would a cloud hit you? You missed in arithmetic the day before and didn't tell mother. Was that very wrong? A chicken hawk soared away up in the blue. How would it feel to be away up there, and perhaps fly, and fly, and——

That's all, till you awoke with a shiver, and ran to the house for supper. Those were good days. A million boys are living them down in the country, just as you once lived them, and most of them are happy. Blessed October! Blessed memory!

A QUARTER CENTURY OF "BEN HUR."

The elaborate revival of "Ben Hur" which Messrs. Klaw & Erlanger are now presenting at the New York Theatre recalls the fact that, although it is almost a quarter of a century since the Harpers published General Wallace's famous novel, more copies are now sold every year than when the book first appeared. In the current performances of the work in its dramatized form, the scenery and effects of the sumptuous Drury Lane Theatre production are utilized, while the cast includes Annie Irish, Harry Woodruff and J. H. Dodson.

STATE CAMPAIGN ON.

Colt's Nomination Encourages the Republicans.

Both Political Parties to Make a Strong Fight on the State and Legislative Tickets.

(Providence correspondence of the News.)

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 16.—The state campaign is now fairly launched and promises to be interesting and strenuous. The defeat of the Republicans last year as regards a part of the state ticket and many representations in the General Assembly has stirred that party to more than ordinarily energetic efforts to make a better showing at the coming election and the leaders are putting forth their best nominees for the positions of importance in the state government. This was shown by the nomination of Colonel Samuel P. Colt for governor, the nomination coming to him as well as to the people at large as a surprise, and wholly without solicitation by him. This was a remarkable condition of affairs in the Republican party of this state, in which heretofore the candidate for governor has been selected months and sometimes even years before his nomination, there often being a sort of waiting list of men anxious for the office and eager for their turn. But the party managers realized that this year, if the party was to win success at the polls, it must put forth its strongest candidates and that it would not do to give the honor to some aspirant who could not be depended upon to bring in the votes that would be needed to defeat the Democrats.

The party leaders were a bit puzzled over the proposition and spent many anxious days trying to solve the problem. As never before, or at least for many years, the available men in the party were canvassed and their qualifications and popularity considered. One after another they were rejected for one reason or another, or, in one or two instances, the men themselves refused to accept the nomination. Finally the choice fell definitely upon Colonel Colt and he was made the nominee, the decision being reached only a few hours before the time for the convention to meet instead of weeks or months, as has usually been the case. The strength of the candidate selected has been fully demonstrated by the unanimous feeling of satisfaction expressed by the party followers since he was named and by the anxiety felt by the leaders of both parties over his delay in sending his acceptance of the honor. The Republicans feared they would lose the man whom they considered an exceptionally good candidate and the Democrats were afraid he would accept, realizing that they would have to make a stronger fight for victory with him as the leader of the opposition ticket than they had anticipated and that the chances of defeat for them would be greater. The result of his acceptance is that the Republicans are hopeful and even confident and the Democrats are fearful and even a bit despondent.

The Republicans not only made their ticket strong by the man they put at its head, but they added strength to it by the nominee selected for second place. George H. Utter, it is acknowledged on all sides and in all parties, is as able and popular a man as could have been named by the party for lieutenant governor. The other nominees of the Republicans are the present incumbents of the offices—Secretary of the State Charles P. Bennett, Attorney General Charles F. Stearns and General Treasurer Walter A. Read. They were successful in securing a re-election a year ago when the first two positions on the ticket were captured by the Democrats, so that it seems reasonably sure that they will be returned this year and will give continued strength to the ticket as a whole.

The Democrats re-nominated for the first two places on their ticket the two men who made such a surprising run last year and were elected, Governor L. F. C. Garvin and Lieutenant Governor Adelard Archambault. Their success a year ago is a sufficient guarantee of their strength, though it is believed by many that Governor Garvin will not poll so large a vote this time. His course in office has not met the approval of many who cast their ballots for him last year, while many others have been disappointed in him as an office holder who admired him as a legislator, in which role he had figured for many years previous to his elevation to the highest office in the state government.

For secretary of state the party named a new man in state politics, John J. Gilmartin, but for the other two offices they nominated men who have before been honored in a similar manner, Clarence A. Aldrich for attorney general and Clark Potter for general treasurer. These two men are popular in their party and have shown themselves in the past to be good vote getters. On the whole, therefore, the Democratic ticket may be considered a strong one, and equal in that respect to the one named a year ago, though many admirers of ex-Mayor Fitzgerald of Pawtucket believe, as they did a year ago, that he would be a better drawing card at the head of the ticket than Governor Garvin. But the latter carried the election a year ago and the party felt that it could not afford to try a new candidate, whose popularity in the entire state was unknown, just at this time when the Republicans were particularly wide awake and aggressive.

There are three other state tickets in the field, those of the Prohibitionists, the Socialists and the Socialist-Labor men, but they count only as vote splitters in the political calculations, and though they may worry the managers of the two big parties a bit in some respects do not raise much of a ripple in the political sea.

There is also to be a warm fight this year for the control of the General Assembly; the Republican party being anxious to secure a tighter hold on that body than it has at present so that it can do something besides heading off Democratic legislation, and the Democrats hoping to increase their representation so that they can do something besides introduce legislation and see it slaughtered in the open body or smothered in committee. To this end both parties are seeking for strong men for the legislature, the Republicans particularly naming some unusually good candidates in various parts of the state and being credited with the intention of pursuing this policy in all sections.

With all this interest over the state and legislative tickets the cities are not forgetting or neglecting municipal matters, and both parties are working hard along those lines also in all the five cities of the state. There will be a close contest in each of these and the best men available are being nominated for mayor and other general officers, while the struggle for seats in the city councils are to be sharp and in some cases almost bitter. Altogether it is a strenuous campaign indeed which has been entered upon. The keenest interest is felt everywhere over every new development, and this promises to continue until the election, on the third of November.

THE PASSING OF A CURIOUS INDIAN CUSTOM.

Near one of the Indian villages on the island of Vancouver may be seen a curious and interesting relic of a native custom that is fast disappearing with the passing of the wild tribes of the Northwest. It is a memorial to the great-grandson of the Vancouver chief Maquina, of the historic Nootka tribe. Maquina was a rich man, and after his death, two years ago, his people held his memory in such veneration that they used his property for the erection of a great monument overlooking the sea near his native village. The memorial represents a huge "thunder-bird"—one of the creatures of the Indian mythology—and a whale. Near by are two sewing-machines, contributed as a token of sorrow by the late chief's squaw.

GIRLS' OR BOYS' MILITARY COAT.

No. 4439—The double-breasted closing, circular capes and box-pleated back are characteristic features of this nobby little coat, which may be used for either boys or girls. It is a style that is particularly becoming and one that will not go out in one season. The coat is shaped by shoulder and under-arm seams and one of the capes may be omitted if desired. The strapping down the front gives a pretty finish, and may be covered by braid like that on capes if one chooses. These little military coats are among the newest designs and are deservedly popular. The coat is particularly full and has a style about it that cannot be had in the every-day modes. Red lady's-cloth or corduroy, with white or black stitchings and gun-metal buttons, would make an attractive design. Other desirable selections which will find favor are velvet, Melton, Kersey cloth or peau de sole, if a heavy coat is not desired. Sizes 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, 9, and 10 years.

DOWIE AND NEW YORK.

It is a common reproach that men seized with a sense of duty are apt to look as far from home as possible for a field for its exercise. That "charity begins at home" is the comfortable excuse by means of which men are wont to escape demands for benevolence, but in the performance of their duties they are notoriously prone to neglect the calls in their own households, and among their neighbors, and seek a distant, and especially a conspicuous field for their operations.

This is one fault which is being committed by Elijah II, as he is known to the people who believe in him, and John Alexander Dowie, as he is known to the world in general. His earthly abiding place is a town ruled absolutely by him, Zion City, which is situated very near the city of Chicago, which is not a Zion city in any sense of the word. Since Dowie located there he has established missions in several places but he has depended mainly for the salvation of the world and the incidental augmentation of his own power and revenue upon the arrival of recruits at his domain. His courage, or his self-confidence, has grown with his success, and he has started out to do the most spectacular thing ever undertaken in the way of a religious enterprise. It will be interesting to watch the result of his failure upon his power and his future career.

But having determined on a tremendous demonstration of his power, or his futility, why did he select a city a thousand miles away as the scene of his operations, instead of taking the one close at hand? Is not Chicago big enough to make his success there all that he could wish in the way of a sensation? Is it not wicked enough to need his most effective ministrations? Is it not his duty to save the city at his very gates before he saves anything else? Dowie's motives in attacking New York are obscure. Of course he needs money and recruits, and he needs to do something out of the ordinary to sustain himself. But such people as his followers are pretty easily satisfied; it is easy to convince the credulous, and not difficult to command the belief of those who wish to believe. Dowie could have made a good deal of a sensation among the classes susceptible to his methods without running such a risk as is involved in his New York enterprise, and his selection of New York rather than Chicago can be explained only on the theory that the Western city is so well acquainted with him that he could not hope to create a sensation there such as he might accomplish where he is a novelty.

MOSELY, THE EXPLORER.

While Mr. Chamberlain is preaching protection to the people of England, and telling them that it is the tariff that has made the United States prosperous, Mr. Mosely has devoted himself to exploring the industries and educational system of this country to find out upon what meat the American Caesar has fed that he has grown so great. Mr. Mosely some time ago brought over a party of English workingmen to assist him in his search for the secret of American success, and he is now back here with a party of educators to examine our schools and colleges, as the workingmen searched our shops and mills, to find out how we have been so successful.

Mr. Mosely's method seems to be the more scientific of the two. Mr. Chamberlain decides that it is the tariff that has prospered us, and that a tariff would have the same effect upon England, although we have prospered under high and low tariffs, and England has grown rich under free trade and protection, and Germany has prospered under high and low tariffs, and while she has lately been prospering very greatly under a pretty high tariff other Continental nations which have high tariffs have not prospered especially. These facts ought to make a man rather cautious about declaring that American and German prosperity are due to the tariff, and if the secret of American prosperity were to be found in protection it would not follow that England's prosperity could be promoted, in the same way, for the American problem was the preservation of the home market; while England's problem is the radically different one of getting foreign markets.

Mr. Mosely is not alone in his search. The London Times sent two or three commissioners, to study our railway system and our iron and steel trade, the Statist sent a man here to report on our railway system, several experts have been sent here to study our cotton mills and other factories. Their reports are far more valuable than Mr. Chamberlain's speeches.

NEW JERSEY'S CHILD LABOR LAW.

New Jersey has succeeded in getting a child labor law, which appears to be a boon as the text is read, but which is proving a failure so far as saving the children goes. The law is supposed to prevent the employment in factories of children under 14 years of age. In New Jersey putting children of tender years at hard labor has been so common that it has made the state a scandal. No convict sentenced to hard labor has been so overworked as many children of New Jersey, virtually prisoners, though innocent of anything worse than having greedy parents or guardians. From these the new law was to protect the children.

That it does not do so is owing to its lack of enforcement. The sum of $2,000 was appropriated for the enforcement of the law, and this naturally proves inadequate for the purpose. Mill and factory owners can find it much to their advantage to double this amount many times in their fight to retain cheap labor, and parents can falsify the reports of the ages of their children, with the certainty that no effort can detect them in the deception. The New Jersey child labor law is a mere sop for the state federation of labor, intended to pacify the humane element of the community. It is another of the laws that are more dangerous than neglect, because it is not intended to be enforced, and therefore an incitement to disobedience of the laws in general.

SCIENCE SPYING ON THE SUN.

In the days before we saw sun spots bad weather came and went with only the annoyance or trouble that it brought with it. Nowadays we have the sorrows of anticipation added to the realization. An eminent meteorologist who is at present prophesying bad weather for the next 10 years bases his belief on the discovery of the surface agitation the sun is undergoing over so many miles of its crust that the disturbed spots can be detected with the naked eye. It is one of the most wholesale prophecies of disaster we have ever had. Ten years are upon us when the hurricane and tornado are to sweep unrestrained, the crops will refuse to ripen, rain coats and umbrellas are to rise to fabulous prices, the increasing scarcity of the rubber tree will be brought home to us as a serious matter, and picnics will become a lost art. This is one of the things we could have gone on better without knowing. Such knowledge is in opposition to the teaching that has told us to take life day by day, and meet its evils as they come. Here we have 10 years of unmitigated evil thrust upon us with one blow, and have to meet it in a moment.

Not the least of the trial is that we must hold hard feeling toward an old and honored comrade. There have been three proud nations that boasted that the sun never set on their dominions. Probably there were just as many sun spots at the time as there are now, and their influence was as much felt then as now. But science had not reached the height where it soars in this new country, and peoples were enabled to overlook the bad, and enjoy only the good. Science now, to adopt a Shakespearean thought, walks about the orb like the sun, and it shines everywhere. The errors our one "glorious sun" has fallen into are doubled and redoubled in their effect upon us by their scientific discovery and the scientific theorizing that follows.

A STITCH IN TIME.

Fifteen hundred dollars for the father, and $5,000 for his six-year old son, makes pretty heavy damages for an electric light company to pay for an indiscretion in leaving a heavily charged roadside electric wire where the small boy could grasp it to the practical destruction of his hand. The Haverford jury that gave the verdict in favor of the boy has gone a great way in safeguarding children, and their elders, also, all over the country, from careless and indifferent treatment by corporations. The way to avoid having to pay such large damages is to take a stitch in time, and not run risks that may mean permanent injury to the people who cannot be always on guard against unsuspected dangers. Heedless corporations must suffer, or mankind in this age must develop a bump of caution that is not natural, and that would deprive life of all joy.

Registration closed in New York last night, and it is evident that a large vote will be cast at the election in November. The total registration in the four boroughs is 450,804, an increase of 51,385 over the figures of last year. Each borough shared in the increase, and the registration was strong both "up town and down" in Manhattan. Tammany is said to have a campaign fund of over $1,000,000, which will be used as "Boss" Murphy decides.

It is reported from Washington that Congress will take no action on the Isthmian canal matter, but that the President will be left free to work the problem out under the legislation enacted by the last Congress. It is still the intention to construct the canal on the Isthmus of Panama and to wait for favorable developments which will make this practicable.

Tremont Temple in Boston is said to be more nearly united in a call to Rev. Poindexter S. Henson, D. D., of Brooklyn to become its pastor than it has been for many years. The deacons have voted unanimously and the executive committee with but one dissenting vote, to recommend to the church membership a call to Dr. Henson.

The Germans have a court-martial case which is a little different from anything that has come before our boards. A German lieutenant is before a military tribunal on the charge of "revealing military secrets." The manner of his offence was publishing a novel in which the families about the post figured in too slight disguise of fictitious names and fellow officers are served up as abusers of soldiers and a scandalous set generally. If Germans and Americans have the same characteristics, the accused officer must be making money out of his book, hand over fist.

It is unfortunate—at least it would be in this part of the world—to publish the facts together that a young married couple had received $1,000,000 worth of wedding presents, and were making a long journey home by automobile through a wild country. If Prince and Princess Andrew get back to Athens without any hold-ups on the strength of the belief that they have a few jewelled necklaces and coronets in their pockets, it will be because the foreign degenerate is not usually educated up to reading the papers.

Admiral Evans is to be in charge of American interests, whatever takes place in the East, and may be depended upon to safeguard our affairs in case of a war between Japan and Russia. "Fighting Bob" will not allow any one to step on America's toes.

It is now generally agreed between the Republican leaders in Congress that nothing will be done at the extra session except approve the Cuban reciprocity treaty, and that there will be no delay in settling this matter.

Block Island politics were aired in the supreme court yesterday. They will stand a good deal of airing. All the breezes that blow at the Island will hardly clear the political situation there.

If the Alaska boundary decision is not for the United States, all the guessers will be at fault.

AN INDUSTRIAL SCHOOL IN THE SOUTH.

In Harper's Magazine for October Mary Applewhite Bacon tells of a school for the children of the poor mill employes which has recently been established in the South. "The only house available in the mill district for the new enterprise was a two-story wooden building, which long before had degenerated into a factory tenement-house, when this ceased to be a residence portion of the town. The 84 pupils who gathered there that September morning were at least not embarrassed by any unfamiliar grandeur of cleanliness and order, but had found at last an institution which met them on their domestic level of discomfort and uncomeliness.

"A most interesting result of the children's share in the furnishing and arrangement of the different parts of the house has been their perception of the fact—grasped very slowly—that in a properly appointed dwelling certain rooms are to be used for certain purposes, and not in any haphazard fashion that indolence or indifference might suggest. To every newcomer it is at first inexplicable that Mr. and Mrs. Nellgh should have a special room in which to receive their visitors, another to sleep in, and a kitchen that is not a place to eat in as well. Similarly, the discovery of the appropriate furnishing for different rooms, the proper fittings for bed, bureau, sideboard, etc., has never lost its charm.

"It need not be inferred from this that the path of the teachers has been altogether an easy one. To the difficulties which might naturally have been anticipated have been added others which the suspicion and prejudice of an inferior social level are prone to create. When the first cooking lesson was announced there was an unexpected mutiny—'We didn't come here to do you-all's cookin'!' The violence of the refusal grew out of the idea that certain forms of labor done for another are dishonoring."

News and Notes of Interest and Importance from All Parts of the State.

Early last evening the main part of the shop owned and occupied by the Hopkins Machine Works and Bridgeton Knife Company, in Burrillville, was destroyed by fire, the total loss being estimated at about $18,000. The loss to the machine works is about $12,000, partly covered by a blanket policy, and to the knife company about $6,000, a total loss. The building destroyed was about 60 by 40 feet at the base and two and one half stories high. It was built in 1831 by Horace W. Hopkins and in 1834 August Hopkins founded the machine works, which manufactured spindles and other factory supplies. Since that time the plant has been in the possession of the descendants of Mr. Hopkins. The late Addison Hopkins operated the works for a long time with great success, manufacturing, besides minor factory supplies, cloth washers and fulling mills for woolen factories. At his death, a year ago, the property reverted to his heirs. The works have employed about 50 hands regularly. About four years ago James T. Kearney organized the Bridgeton Knife Company and occupied the upper floor of the main building. He has employed about 30 hands, turning out about 400 dozen knives per day. His machinery was of the latest order and will be a total loss. The output of the knife company for at least a year to come has been purchased, and the fire was most inopportune to the company. The origin of the fire is unknown.

The Brown University corporation has voted to call the new dormitory on Thayer street "Caswell Hall," in honor of Alexis Caswell, D. D., LL. D., formerly president of the university. Dr. Caswell graduated from Brown in the class of 1822. He was professor of mathematics and natural philosophy in Brown University from 1828 to 1863 and served as president from 1868 to 1872. Few men have entered so largely into the life of Rhode Island as did Dr. Caswell during his long career. He was director and vice president of the Providence Athanaeum, president of the National Exchange Bank and of the American Screw Company, and of the Rhode Island Hospital. His scientific reputation was widely extended. He was one of the founders of the American Association for the Advancement of Science and one of the corporators of the National Academy of Sciences. He served as trustee and fellow of Brown University from 1872 to 1877. He was preacher at the First Baptist Church in Providence for a single year and president of the board of trustees of Newton Theological Institution.

One of the sailors belonging on Senator Aldrich's steam yacht Chichota, Isaac Tuggart of Providence, was drowned at Warwick yesterday morning while going from the shore to the yacht, and in the afternoon the body had not been recovered, although several of Senator Aldrich's employes have been engaged in dragging the waters in that vicinity since early morning. The drowned sailor was a young man who was known only as "Ike" by his fellows on the steam yacht and the other employes on Senator Aldrich's place. He was alone at the time of the drowning. He had come up to Providence early in the evening and remained until nearly midnight, when he returned to Warwick. It was about 1 o'clock when he boarded a small boat at the landing to row out to the steam yacht, and a few minutes later he fell overboard and evidently soon sank for the last time. The men on the Chichota heard a cry for help, and as soon as possible two of the crew put off in a boat from the yacht. They soon found the empty boat used by the new sailor, but he could not be found, nor were there any traces of his body. They rowed around in the vicinity for some time but were unsuccessful in their search.

Last evening at the clubhouse of the Rhode Island Yacht Club occurred one of those pleasant affairs in the social life of such an organization when the members get together and present to some popular officer a suitable testimonial of their regard for him. On this occasion Commodore Frank F. Olney was the recipient of the mark of appreciation, the gift taking the form of a handsome oil painting of his schooner yacht Esperanza, flagship of the Rhode Island Yacht Club fleet. The presentation was a complete surprise to Commodore Olney. He thought it rather strange that several of the club members were so insistent upon his attendance at an "important meeting" last evening, and when he reached the clubhouse and saw the preparations for elaborate festivities that were in evidence he began to suspect something. Yet he had no inkling of just what was to take place, and was almost overcome by emotion when the beautiful painting was revealed. There were about 100 of the club members who enjoyed the evening's program.

The Providence Towboat Company's new tug Roger Williams has been completed at Athens, N. Y., and is now on her way to Providence. The boat is larger than the company's ocean-going Guspee, being 108 feet long, 25 feet deep, and will draw, with her full allowance of coal aboard, 13 feet. She has a bunker capacity of 100 tons. The towboat company has built this tug especially to handle the very large vessels which are now coming so much to Providence. She will be commanded by Frank M. Sutton, now on the Gaspee. Weather permitting, the Roger Williams will reach Providence today.

The colored voters of Providence assembled last evening at the Mount Zion Church and unanimously adopted resolutions endorsing the Republican state ticket, also heartily endorsing the administration of President Roosevelt. The meeting, which was of a large and enthusiastic character, was called ostensibly to perfect a union of the colored voters of Providence under the support of the Republican party, but incidentally it developed into a lively discussion of the negro suffrage question, as an immediate result of which James Dixon of Providence was elected leader of the suffrage cause in Rhode Island and Providence. During the course of the evening various speakers addressed the audience, which numbered about 500, and each forcibly emphasized the need for concerted action on the part of the colored voters in support of the principles of the Republican party.

John Doyle, a freight brakeman on the Consolidated railroad, was run over and ground to pieces at Auburn yesterday afternoon, by being thrown from the top of a car.

A NEW BEDFORD MONOPOLY.

[New Bedford Standard.]

The reported sale of 1,000 pounds of whalebone in this city within a few days stripped the world of its entire visible supply in first hands, and now the manufacturers who use it will perforce be obliged to await the arrival of a new catch before they can proceed. For over a year one man in this city has held the absolute control of the whalebone market, selling when he chose and demanding his own price. Every scrap of bone arriving in port he has secured, if possible, and only in this last sale has his warehouse been totally emptied.

This tends to show how dependent is the world on that old industry, which we are inclined to regard as past, but which still finds its anchorage in this port. Ever since the fashionable feminine world commenced wearing whalebone for dress stays, New Bedford's greasy old enterprise has been the source of supply, and it is as true today as ever. But when we consider the diminishing production, the question of the future becomes ripe for thought. Leading dressmakers assert that there has never been a substitute for whalebone which filled all the requirements. One thing after another has been tried, but never have any of them supplanted or threatened to supplant the genuine product. Unless some genius arrives at the successful solution of the problem, it rather looks as though New Bedford's monopolist will be a striking factor in the world of feminine finery.

DRUGGISTS.

CROWN TOOTH POWDER.

Tooth powders are better for the teeth than tooth washes. Most washes produce an acid condition of the mouth which causes decay, while GOOD tooth powders take up the acid which does the harm. CROWN TOOTH POWDER has all the antiseptic properties and none of the grit of other powders. Used faithfully it will make the teeth WHITE and will never injure the enamel.

SILVER AND LEAD RECOVERED.

Bullion Worth $100,000 Lying Under Water Since September 27.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Tales of treasure lost at sea do not generally have the happy ending of that just concluded through the works of divers and a dredge in Staten Island sound, off Seawaren, N. J. Silver and lead bullion worth $100,000 has been recovered after lying on the bottom of the Sound since September 27 last.

The bullion came from the Mexican mines by way of Galveston on a Mallory line steamship, and was on its way from the East river water front to the plant of the American Smelting & Refining Company, near Perth Amboy, N. J. There were 7,678 pigs of the metal on the deck of the barge Harold.

In company with 13 light canal boats, the treasure ship was taken in tow by a tug, as was the last boat in the line. Under a moon nearly full, the night was brighter than many days. There was no wind. Peter Moore, captain of the barge, spent the evening chatting with the canalers alongside as the tow dragged slowly across the upper bay and into the Kill Von Kull. The Harold was not so comfortable as might be, so when bedtime came he accepted an invitation to sleep aboard the canal boat.

After all hands had turned in the barge rolled to starboard under the weight of 400 tons of metal and dumped the whole mass except about 200 pigs into the water. She righted immediately and went along as peacefully as before. Some of the metal landed on the canal boat deck and Moore was awakened. He hailed the pilot of the tug, but had no megaphone and the pilot kept the squadron on the move. Moore failed to notice that a fortune had disappeared from his craft while he slept. The barge appeared to be moving along all right and he went back to his bunk.

When the boats drew up in the morning at the pier in New Jersey there was a surprise awaiting the smelter officer, and everybody was sworn to secrecy. Insurance companies were notified and preparations quickly made to search the bottom of the Sound for the lost pigs. The waters in that part of the bay are known to be infested with pirates, who go about in small boats preying on canal boats and coal barges. They are considered dangerous men, and great fears were entertained that they might learn of the affair and locate the treasure. Launches were hurried to the scene, and for more than a week, while the men on board pretended to be fishing, sounding lines were being put over the sandy bottom.

Finally October 5 the search was rewarded when the line gave a metallic answer to the tapping of the lead. Divers went down and found nearly an acre of the bottom covered with the bullion. A dredge immediately was put into commission, and the work of recovery went on rapidly until nearly 85 per cent of the treasure had been brought up. The divers then went down again and gathered up what the dredge had failed to reach, and the insurance company officials breathed a sigh of relief, as their loss will now be a small one comparatively.

The bullion was a mixture of lead and silver, the latter making up fully three quarters of its value, which will be separated and refined at the Perth Amboy works. Captain Baxter of the salvage crew said the next few days' search will decide how long divers shall continue at work, but he is satisfied not enough remains on the bottom to make it worth any amateur wrecker's while.

TO DEFEND AMERICAN INTERESTS IN THE FAR EAST.

Plans for the protection of American interests in the Far East have been mapped out by the General Board of the navy, of which Admiral George Dewey is president, in the event of war between Japan and Russia.

Realizing that the United States holds the balance of power in the Far East, and that it might be involved in the war, the General Board has mapped out Admiral Evans's course in such an event. The defenseless condition of the Philippine Islands is thoroughly appreciated by the General Board, but it would be Admiral Evans's duty, if possible, to meet the fleet of the enemy before it reached Manila, and destroy it in open combat at sea.

It is estimated that $50,000,000 will be required for the defenses of the Philippines, and Congress may be asked this year to authorize the beginning of the work.

THE CARPENTER ENGAGEMENT.

Arrangements having been made to give the Republicans the Opera House for their rally Monday night, the Frankie Carpenter company will open its engagement Tuesday afternoon, presenting "Pawn Ticket 210," which it was originally announced would be given Monday evening. Miss Carpenter is well known in Newport for her work in repertoire and will have among her support Jere Grady, one of the most popular of repertoire actors in Newport. The company is said to be stronger and the specialties more pleasing than ever. The plays are nearly all new to Newport.

FORT ADAMS ROUND SHOT CONDEMNED.

These old round shot and shell that made such picturesque piles at Fort Adams for years are doomed to the melting pot, and Captain Connolly is bringing them from the fort and shipping them to the Watertown arsenal, where they can be converted into modern gun carriages, etc. They have survived their usefulness, except for ornamental purposes, at Fort Adams. With the departure of these round shot the old smooth-bore guns will also go, and the fort will become, so far as armament is concerned, strictly modern.

AT THE CHANNING CONFERENCE.

The Dighton Unitarian church celebrated the one hundredth anniversary of its founding, in connection with the fall session of the Channing Conference in that town. The conference and the anniversary exercises opened Wednesday evening and were continued through Thursday. Several were present from the southern end of the county.

At the meeting Wednesday evening the conference sermon was preached by Professor William N. Fenn of Harvard Divinity school. The historical address was given Thursday by Rev. A. Judson Rich, the present pastor. Hon. Milton Reed of Fall River made an interesting address. Other speakers were Prescott Keyes of Concord, and Rev. George W. Kent of Providence.

JAMESTOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

As a preliminary to the fortification work soon to be started at Boston Beck, in Narragansett, Mr. J. K. Sullivan Thursday began work on his contract for a wharf at that place. The wharf will be similar to the one recently built at Fox Hill for the government. There will be infant baptism at St. Matthew's Church tomorrow morning, at the 11 o'clock service.

Mr. G. A. Clarke has a pear quince tree at his place on Narragansett avenue that always bears well. This year he gathered over two bushels of fine fruit from the tree. The quinces weigh more than a pound each and are handsome specimens of this fruit.

Mr. Martin Saunders, while at work raising one of the J. A. Saunders floats, which were sunk in the recent storm, sustained a scalp wound from a piece of joist which was used to tie two spiles, and which broke and fell while the float was being placed in position.

Mr. Pitszipplo of New York, who spends the summer at the Bay View, was in town today to get his automobile, which he had left here. He is about to take a trip to Virginia on his machine, which he designed himself.

Mrs. W. A. Champlin has gone to Providence, to visit her sister, Mrs. S. C. Knowles.

Miss Carrie Landers returned to New York last night.

ROGERS BEATEN IN FALL RIVER.

The Rogers High School football team ran up against the Fall River High School team at Fall River yesterday, and did better than was expected. Fall River won, 20 to 0, scoring two touchdowns in each half, but the Rogers boys held them pretty well. One touchdown in each half was directly due to the punting; in the first half a punt was blocked and Fall River scored, and in the second half a punt advanced the ball only about a foot and Fall River again scored.

Rogers will play St. George's next Wednesday.

The Young Men's Christian Association team is to play the marines at the Training Station this afternoon.

The old polo ground, where the South Ends played base ball, has been secured for football and the Rogers and Young Men's Christian Association teams will play their home games there.

Quite a large number of Newporters went to Providence today to participate in or witness the ceremonies attending the transfer of the Rhode Island battle flags from the old to the new State House. The veterans of the Civil war went by train, leaving at 8:13, and Colonel A. K. McMahon furnished an even 100 transportation certificates, practically all of which were used. In honor of the celebration there were a number of flags flying about the city, the day having been proclaimed a legal holiday. The banks and public offices, libraries and the Old Colony repair shops were closed.

BEAUTY CULTURE.

(New York Tribune.)

"Mercy!" said the younger of the girls, "if one spent all the time the beauty experts direct on one's neck, hair, complexion and hands there would be no time left for anything else. If one could manage to do everything just as they say it should be done, the hours for sleep would be awfully cut down, and they all say that going without sleep is fatal to one's good looks. How do you manage?"

"There wouldn't be time for anything else if one did everything all the time," replied the older and prettier girl. "You're right there. But the way I manage—and I think it a good way, too—is to take turns with the different kinds of beauty culture. I do one thing one month, then take up another next month, then exchange that for a third, and so I give everything a share of interest, and still have all the time I want for sleeping and other things.

"This month I am devoting to my hair. This does not mean that I do not clean my teeth conscientiously every night, or that I fail to rub cold cream into my face and neck before jumping into bed. My Indian club, breathing and chest weight exercises I do every morning. But I am now talking special pains with my hair, to massage the scalp, ventilate it, rub in a good stimulant and brush it, both for health and to obtain that satiny polish I admire so much. I suppose I spend 20 minutes every night on my hair.

"Last month I devoted myself to cultivating my neck. I waved it back and forth and from side to side in the approved athletic manner, and did all the stunts I could think of, with a view to warding off salt cellars and a crumbling chin. I went without collars or stocks of any kind as much as possible, and I massaged myself with cold cream and alcohol, and whitened myself with zinc salve mixed with benzoin.

"I notice that the skin on my chin is looking rough and red, as if it needed attention. I shall have to give that a turn next. The complexion is more important than all the rest put together. You can buy new hair and nobody will know the difference; you can buy false teeth, with satisfactory results, but a store complexion betrays itself irretrievably. So, you see, when one thing gets in pretty good condition, I let it alone and take another feature."

ESCAPE WITH ALL THE FUNDS.

Burglars Demolish Safe in Bank of Nova Scotia at St. Andrews, N. B.

ST. ANDREWS, N. B., Oct. 17.—An unusual stir throughout the Passamaquoddy district was created early today by burglars, who entered the bank of Nova Scotia here, demolished the safe and escaped with all the funds, estimated at several thousand dollars. The authorities in several towns and villages on the New Brunswick and Maine sides of the St. Croix have been notified to apprehend suspicious persons and special detectives have been engaged to work on the case.

During the summer a number of unknown men have been seen frequently in this vicinity. It was supposed they were thieves, awaiting an opportunity to rob wealthy families from Boston, Montreal and elsewhere who have summer residences in this section. A sharp watch was maintained and no serious depredation was committed until early today. All the summer visitors departed last month, and it was supposed no further effort would be made here by crooks to ply their operations. St. Andrews is the shire town of Charlotte county and there are usually several deputy sheriffs and constables here, in addition to the town police.

Some time after midnight several men entered the bank building, after making full preparations to carry their plans to a successful termination. The robbers had secured a supply of horse blankets, bags and other heavy material, which they wrapped about the safe to deaden the noise of the explosion. The tools used were obtained from a nearby blacksmith shop. So completely had the preparations been arranged that those who heard the concussion did not know whence it came and the burglars were not molested. The safe was so heavily charged, however, that it was practically destroyed and much damage was done to the bank offices.

After obtaining the money from the wrecked safe the burglars went to the yard of the Canadian Pacific railway, where they seized a hand car. By using this they were enabled to place many miles between them and the town before the authorities started on their trail. It is believed that the men are endeavoring to make their way into the United States. St. Stephen, Calais and numerous smaller places were notified of the robbery and the authorities on all sides are attempting to locate the burglars. It is thought the men may be the ones who robbed the Brewer, Me., savings bank late in the summer.

The head offices of the bank of Nova Scotia are in Halifax. Thus far it is not known just how much money was in the safe, but it amounted to several thousands.

DEMOCRATS STILL DECLINING.

Declinations seem to be in order among the Democratic nominees. Mr. Arthur B. Commerford has officially declined the nomination for third councilman in the Second ward, and with his declination the entire ticket, put up by four voters in that ward, disappeared. Rev. R. B. Pomeroy has declined the nomination for the School Committee. A very careful listening has so far resulted in hearing nothing in the way of declinations from the Republican candidates.

SAILING VESSEL UPSET ONCE.

Captain Refused to Abandon the Craft and Kept on for France.

QUEENSTOWN, Oct. 17.—Cunard line steamer Etruria, from New York October 10 for Liverpool, which arrived here today after a stormy passage, reports that British steamer Greenbrier, bound for Jamaica from Manchester, England, spoke, September 17, sailing boat Columbia II (119A feet long), Captain Ison Brown, which left Boston August 11 and Halifax, Nova Scotia, August 28, for Marseilles, France, in Lat. 37.11 north and Long. 42.4 west. The captain of the Greenbrier invited Captain Brown to abandon his small craft, but Brown determined to persevere. He had been upset once, and had righted the boat only after some hours of severe struggle. The Greenbrier reprovisioned the Columbia II, which when met by the steamer had been 37 days out from Boston.

THE NAVAL RESERVE BASKET BALL TEAM.

A very large photograph, by H. W. Rankin, of the basket ball team of the Newport Naval Reserves of 1902-3 has been placed on exhibition in the window of J. H. Barney, Jr., & Co.'s music store. The group includes Maher, O'Neill, Beattie, McLean, Sullivan, Allen and Manager Vayro. On the broad mat surrounding the photograph is the record of the 15 games which the team played last winter, including 13 victories and two defeats, a record which justifies the Reserves in claiming the championship for their team.

BOUNDARY DECISION AWAITED.

Miners Leaving British Yukon for the American Side.

TACOMA, Washn., Oct. 17.—That American miners are leaving British Yukon for the American side of the Alaskan boundary is declared to be a fact beyond question by John McGillvray, a New York mining engineer, who was sent into the Klondike when the first discovery of gold was made. He has spent six years in the north, being brought into close contact with Canadian methods. He emphasizes his belief that between no government at all and that given Yukon territory by Canadian officials the former is preferable.

Despatches from Juneau and Skaguay state that residents of southeastern Alaska are anxiously awaiting the award of the boundary commission from London. Miners in the Porcupine district and adjacent territory have been quietly recording their claims with the British recorders across the line to insure their rights in the event of a decision unfavorable to the United States.

ONE WORKMAN BADLY BEATEN.

Result of Strike of Franklin Union of Press Feeders.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—A savage street fight, in which one workman was badly beaten, occurred last night as a result of the strike of the Franklin Union of Press Feeders. The assault was the culmination of several days of disorder. A gang of men declared to be Franklin union pickets attacked a number of employes of the R. R. Donnelly & Sons Company. In the fight which followed Frank Lahew was badly beaten. A number of other Donnelly employes were struck, but not severely hurt.

The police arrested three men, Frank Ketchum, John Mucher, and Charles Smith. With a number of their fellows they will be arraigned today, charged with violating the injunction which prohibits all interference with the men who have taken the places vacated by the Franklin union members.

STOLE THOUSANDS OF DOLLARS.

Chicago Letter Carrier Confesses His Guilt to Inspector.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Albert Joerndt, a letter carrier, is in jail, waiting arraignment on the charge of stealing letters and the checks and money they contained. Joerndt last night confessed to Postoffice Inspector Stuart that he had been betting on the races and for more than a year had been committing thefts. The total amount taken may reach into thousands of dollars. Joernndt was an officer in the National Association of Letter Carriers and twice had been a delegate to the conventions of the organization.

FOOTBALL FORBIDDEN.

Five Students Injured in the Last 10 Days at Carroll College.

WAUKESHA, Wis., Oct. 17.—Because of the frequent accidents during football practices, which resulted in five students being injured in the last 10 days, one so seriously that he was sent home, the faculty of Carroll College has forbidden the game. This action was taken after putting the question to a vote, first to the football team and then to the students of the college. Failing to secure their approval, the faculty peremptorily ordered the football eleven to disband for the season.

TO BE GREATLY RESTRICTED.

Issue of Railroad Passes by Western Lines Next Year.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—The issue of railroad passes by the western roads during the year 1904 will be greatly restricted. Passes to shippers or merchants will be entirely discontinued. To bring this about the annual pass meeting of the executive officers of the western roads has been in session here during the last two days.

The issue of exchange passes will be greatly curtailed. Annual passes will not be exchanged with any road that does not grant a similar favor. This means that officers of the eastern trunk lines, no matter what their rank, will not receive any annual passes from western roads, because the trunk lines refuse to issue exchange passes.

Return passes to men in charge of livestock shipments will also be cut off this year.

IN SESSION IN PROVIDENCE.

New England High School Commercial Teachers' Association.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 17.—The New England High School Commercial Teachers' Association, in annual convention here, today held a business meeting, at which the affairs of the board were received and plans made for the coming year, and listened to a series of addresses which brought forth considerable discussion as to the methods best adapted to teaching.

Miss Mary A. Kilpatrick of Lowell, Mass., gave the first address upon "Commercial Geography," and E. A. Tibbetts, Providence, and T. T. Wilson, Malden, Mass., led the discussion which followed. The subject of, "Typewriting" was handled by Miss Mary E. Kerwin, Providence, assisted by Mary E. Donnelly, Providence, and W. W. Pettie, Beverly, Mass.; "Penmanship," by M. D. Fuller, Pawtucket, Conn., by J. C. Moody, New Britain, Conn., and D. A. Casey, Woonsocket; "Bookkeeping," by C. S. Kingsbury, Hartford, assisted by J. D. Houston, New Haven, and W. F. Gibson, Wilbraham, Mass.

C. C. Ramsey of Boston, at the afternoon session, conducted a round table discussion of courses of study proposed at the meeting of the business section of the National Educational Association, Boston.

NO GROUND FOR COMPROMISE.

Secretary of Cripple Creek Mine Owners' Association Says Strike is Over.

COLORADO SPRINGS, Col., Oct. 17.—C. C. Hamlin, secretary of the Cripple Creek District Mine Owners and Operators' Association, has given an official statement, in which he says:

"There is no ground for compromise between us and the Western Federation of Miners. In the first place, the strike in so far as the working of our mines is concerned is over. We are filling our mines as rapidly as we can do, and have experienced no difficulty in securing competent men. The Western Federation is not only vicious in its principles, but criminal in its methods."

C. McNeill, manager of the United States Reduction & Refining Company, has refused to confer with President Moyer of the Western Federation of Miners regarding the strike.

TO ALL CATARRH SUFFERERS.

Hyomei Guaranteed to Cure by James T. Wright or Money Refunded.

The popularity and increase in the sales of Hyomei are unique in the annals of medicine. Such astonishing cures have been made by this remarkable remedy that the proprietors have authorized Jas. T. Wright to sell every package of Hyomei under an absolute guarantee that it will cure catarrh. If it does not, the purchaser can have his money refunded by Jas. T. Wright.

Hyomei is no ordinary remedy. It is the only method of treatment that sends by direct inhalation to the most remote part of the air passages, a balsamic air that destroys all catarrhal germs in the breathing organs, enriches and purifies the blood with additional ozone, and makes permanent and complete cures of catarrh.

The complete Hyomei outfit costs but $1.00 and consists of an inhaler that can be carried in the vest pocket, a medicine dropper and a bottle of Hyomei. The inhaler lasts a lifetime, and if one bottle does not cure, an extra bottle of Hyomei can be obtained for 50 cents. It is the most economical of all remedies advertised for the cure of catarrh, and is the only one that follows nature in her method of treating diseases of the respiratory organs.

Breathe through the inhaler for a few minutes four times a day and your catarrh is cured. That's all.

If not cured Jas. T. Wright will refund your money.

NEGRO WARD DESTROYED.

Two Women Die From Excitement in a Hospital Fire.

ATLANTA, Ga., Oct. 17.—As the result of a fire early today in the Grady hospital two negro women died, and for some time the lives of a score or more were threatened. The two women died as a result of excitement. The fire originated about midnight from embers left in a laundry stove. The negro ward, which was separated from the main building of the hospital, was destroyed. Twenty negro men and 12 negro women were in the ward, and all were removed to places of safety. The property loss was small.

FOUGHT AGAINST SANTA ANNA.

Death of A. C. Fulton, One of the Pioneers of Davenport, Iowa.

DAVENPORT, Iowa, Oct. 17.—A. C. Fulton, one of the pioneers of Davenport, is dead here, aged 92. He was born in Pennsylvania, and in his youth went to New Orleans and engaged in the shipping business. In 1835 he organized the New Orleans Grays, a company of 200 of the best young men in New Orleans, and led them against Santa Anna, the Mexican dictator. He went to Davenport in 1842, and became connected with nearly all the movements that brought railroads and business enterprises to the young city of that day. He was a member of the Iowa legislature in ante-bellum days.

BUSINESS STREET BURNED.

ABERDEEN, Wash., Oct. 16.—Fire in this town today caused four deaths and destroyed property valued at approximately $1,000,000. It practically wiped out the main business street of the town, which is built mostly of wood, destroying more than 100 buildings.

The fire wiped out ten blocks of business houses and residences. Not more than one half of the loss is covered by insurance, the insurance companies having refused to carry any greater risk, on account of the inflammable material of which all the buildings in Aberdeen are constructed. Every business man in the city is a loser either by fire, water, removal, breakage or loss by theft. Not anticipating that the flames would get beyond the fire department's control, many waited until the fire was close upon them before starting to move out. The streets were soon strewn and littered with all kinds of material and the rush and haste of teams and people in every direction caused great confusion.

Threatened Strike of the Employes of Chicago City Railway.

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—The threatened strike of the employes of the Chicago city railway, which has been hanging fire for several weeks, will be definitely settled tonight, when a referendum vote of the 3,500 employes will be taken on the question. This decision has been reached after all the employes of the other street railways in Chicago, including the elevated roads, at a mass meeting, offered their moral and financial support to the men of the South side line, should a strike be decided upon. The demands made upon the Chicago city railroad are for recognition of the union and an increased wage scale. Both propositions have been refused by the company.

ORGANIZED TO ORDER.

Great Trusts Supplied with Dummy Directors and Corporators.

NEW YORK, Oct. 16.—Giant commercial corporations whose capital stocks aggregate $5,000,000,000 organized to order by dummy corporators and directed in their initial steps by dummy directors—this is the record of the Corporation Trust Company of New Jersey, a concern capitalized at $1,000 and whose officers are mere boys.

The Corporation Trust Company, which supplied the dummy corporators and dummy directors for the United States Shipbuilding trust, whose remarkable ignorance in matters of finance was aired at the hearing for the appointment of a receiver for the defunct shipyard trust, has incorporated 1,300 corporations within a few years, and has supplied from its force of boy clerks and officers puppet directors and corporators for these great companies.

This Corporation Trust Company has a dual existence. In Jersey City it is the Corporation Trust Company of New Jersey. In New York it is the Corporation Trust Company of New York, and despite its slender capital of $1,000 it has palatial offices in both cities. The offices of the Corporation Trust Company of New York are at 135 Broadway. They occupy the entire second floor and are fitted out with mahogany and brass. Howard K. Wood is president.

Mr. Wood was in his office when a reporter called today. He would not reply to any question put to him about his corporation and its methods of business. The other officers, Secretary Kenneth R. McLaren, one of the dummy corporators of the shipyard company, and Assistant Secretary Horace S. Gould, another dummy corporator, were just as reticent about the affairs of the concern. They were apparently as ignorant of everything connected with their company as they were of their actions as directors and corporators of the defunct trust. They could not deny, however, that they had organized the Miller Syndicate Company and other get-rich-quick concerns. Strangely enough, the names of these get-rich-quick concerns do not appear on the tablets in the company's Jersey City offices.

At the shipyard trust hearing the usefulness of these dummy directors and incorporators was explained. When an enormous bubble burst it would not appear well for the name of Mr. Morgan or Mr. Schwab or some other distinguished multimillionaire to be held up on the record as having issued millions of dollars' worth of evaporated stock with which to buy plants and factories that were steeped in debt and could never hope to pay dividends. The names of the dummy directors, who have not even a bank account, look better on the minute books.

The following is a partial list of trusts organized through the offices of the Corporation Trust Company of New Jersey, taken from the tablets of 1,300 corporations: The Consolidated Oil Company (the oil trust), the Continental Biscuit Company (the biscuit trust), the Continental Marble Company (the marble trust), the Continental Rubber Company (the rubber trust), the Eyeless Tool Company, (the tool trust), the Continental Barrel and Package Company (the barrel trust), the American Beet Sugar Company (the beet sugar trust), the American Hide and Leather Company (the leather trust), the American Writing Machine Company (the typewriter trust), the Consolidated Match Company (the match trust), the International Cutlery Company (the cutlery trust), the Metropolitan Tobacco Company (the tobacco trust), the National Paper Box Company (the paper box trust), the New York Ice Company (the ice trust), the Distillers' Securities Company (the whiskey trust), and the United States Shipbuilding Company (the bankrupt shipyard trust).

The Jersey City office, which occupies the entire eighth floor of the Commercial Trust Company building at No. 15 Exchange place, is in charge of Louis F. Daily, assistant treasurer of the company. Mr. Daily was one of the dummy directors of the shipyard trust. He is 25 years old. He testified at the Shipbuilding Company hearing Thursday that he did not have a bank account. When seen by a reporter in his office in Jersey City today, Mr. Daily displayed a rare reticence and lack of information. He did not know whether his company was a New York or a New Jersey corporation. He did not know its source of revenue. He referred his interviewer to President Howard K. Wood.

In the hallway of the offices of the Corporation Trust Company of New Jersey are two enormous black tablets bearing the names of 1,300 corporations which came into being in New Jersey through the offices of the company, which, for a consideration, supplied dummy corporators and directors whose names, and not the names of the great capitalists organizing the trusts and industrial combinations, appeared in the minute books of the first directors' meetings as having voted billions of dollars for the purposes of the great corporations.

DEMURRERS IN THE WILSON SUIT.

The appellate division of the supreme court heard arguments yesterday afternoon on the respondents' demurrer to the bill in the Newport case of Ray B. Wilson and others against Mary C. Wilson and others. The bill is a petition to have the court order the payment of certain damages to the complainants awarded on account of the laying out of a street from Central court to Mann avenue. The question of the validity of the plea filed by the respondents was also argued.

THE BLOCK ISLAND TICKETS.

Supreme Court Hears Arguments on Petition to Place the Rose Candidates on the Ballot.

From the opening to the close of the supreme court session in Providence yesterday Chief Justice Matteson and Associate Justices Tillinghast and Douglas listened to argument advanced by Rathbone Gardner, in behalf of the Democratic state central committee, on a petition for a mandamus writ to compel Secretary of State Bennett to place on the official ballot the names of the senator and representative placed in nomination at New Shoreham, under orders of that committee, and to designate them as the nominees of the regular Democratic party of Block Island.

Attorney General Stearns and General Charles A. Wilson appeared, the former for Secretary Bennett and the latter for Senator Champlin and Representative Dodge, who were nominated prior to the holding of the so-called rump caucus and by the Democratic town committee. Secretary Bennett had received and recognized the Champlin-Dodge ticket several days before the Rose ticket was set up, and when the latter was presented to him as the Democratic ticket he declined to receive it. Anticipating such a situation, the Rose people combined with the Republicans of the town, and the Rose ticket was thus given a place on the official ballot.

The principal note sounded at yesterday's hearing was that the state central committee, having repudiated the Champlin ticket because it was not nominated by representative Democrats, desired that the designating party mark "Democratic" should be affixed to the Rose candidates only.

The court took the matter under consideration. If the mandamus is issued, the Champlin ticket will be effaced from the official records. Moreover, the supervisors appointed by the New Shoreham town council from the list of available candidates presented by the Champlin Democrats will not be permitted to serve.

MIDDLETOWN.

[Regular correspondence of the News.]

A fair attendance was present at the Oliphant Club, which met with Mrs. J. Willis Peckham yesterday afternoon. The meeting opened in the usual manner with the reading of current events, a reading on "Birds" by Mrs. Willis Peckham, followed by quotations from Bryant. The next meeting will be with Miss Clara L. Coggeshall on Green's lane, the subject to be "Rivers," with quotations from Rose Terry Cooke. Travel studies will be taken up next in the series.

The Woman's Christian Temperance Union met with Mrs. A. W. Kingsley, though there was only a small attendance.

Mr. and Mrs. George E. Ward entertained Mr. Lyman H. Barker and family yesterday.

Mr. Robert Smith has just completed a corn crib at the farm he hires on Paradise avenue.

Mrs. Charles L. Farnum of Tiverton arrived yesterday to visit her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Elisha C. Peckham.

Mr. Roger Sherman of Fairhaven was guest of Mr. James T. Peckham Thursday and Friday.

The state road commissioners came from Providence in their automobiles yesterday and inspected the new pieces of roadbed in Portsmouth and Middletown. There were five commissioners and General Superintendent Rodman in the party.

The choir of the Methodist Episcopal Church is preparing the music to be rendered at the First Methodist Episcopal Church, Newport, Tuesday, October 27, at the meeting of the Social Union.

Yesterday being the fifteenth anniversary of the marriage of Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin W. H. Peckham of Honyman hill, a large number of relatives descended upon them, giving them a genuine surprise, last evening. They were the recipients of many gifts in gold, bronze, glassware and flowers. Mr. R. J. Grinnell served an oyster stew and later ice cream was served. There were about 40 guests present, including relatives from Providence, Tiverton and Jamestown, and friends from Onset, Mass., and the gathering broke up at a very late hour.

A farewell reception was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stewart Ritchie last evening, in honor of their son James, who leaves today for Seymour, Conn., where he will be in the employment of an establishment manufacturing gas engines.

The Berlitz School of Languages in Newport.

In order to meet the demand for lessons in French in Newport made upon the Berlitz School of Languages, a branch for French instruction has been opened at 18 Church street, opposite the Trinity Episcopal Church.

The Berlitz Method is a logical and rational imitation (systematized and adapted to the wants of adults) of the way we naturally learn our mother tongue. From the first lesson to the last the student hears and speaks only the language he intends to learn.

French instruction is given privately and in classes, in school and at residence, by native teachers only. Circulars forwarded upon application. Trial lessons will be given free of charge.

Whiteness and Purity.

After all, there is nothing that looks better than a house painted white, with green blinds. White, you know, is the symbol of purity, but we are sorry to say that all white paint is not pure, neither in its composition nor color. You will agree with us that if a half dozen different brands of white paint were set side by side and you were asked to take your pick, you would not hesitate very long in taking the one that was whitest. Now, if the Colonial Paint was one of the brands in select from, you would carry home the COLONIAL, for it is the whitest of all paints. Furthermore, it takes about one quart of linseed oil to a gallon in order to thin to proper consistency for use.

AS TO THE CHURCH STREET SITE.

To the Editor of the Daily News:

An article in the Daily News of October 11, signed "Taxpayer," has reference to the site for the high school. As to the merits or demerits of the Broadway or Central Court sites I have nothing to say. The School Committee referred that question to the taxpayers, and by a large majority the taxpayers selected the Church Street site, which vote must have a legal hearing.

As to the Church Street site, to say the least it is very unkind in your correspondent to attempt to depreciate the value of the Church Street property, saying that "the same land has been offered time and time again for 50 cents per foot," which is utterly false. It has never been offered for less than $15,000, which sum Mrs. Thayer declined to entertain for it. Your correspondent also speaks of it as "an abandoned estate." So far from that, it is occupied by an old friend of one of Mrs. Thayer's heirs and the heirs are perfectly satisfied that it is in good hands.

CHALLENGE BISHOP M'VICKAR.

Barrington Citizens Demand Proof That Their Town Is Corrupt.

Deny the Charges Contained in a Political Pamphlet Issued frm Democratic Headquarters.

[Providence Journal.]

The town of Barrington is up in arms over the political pamphlet which has been issued from Democratic headquarters and sent broadcast all over Rhode Island. This pamphlet is entitled "A Disclosure of Political Conditions and an Appeal for Their Reform." It consists of a series of articles printed last spring in the New York Evening Post which purported to tell of the depravity and corruption which is alleged to exist in this state.

So far as responsibility for the reprinting of the articles is concerned, there is nothing in the pamphlet to indicate it. As a matter of fact, the governor's literary bureau is presumed to have attended to the matter. The printing was done outside the state, and the package containing the pamphlets was shipped to the office of one of the leaders of the Democratic machine in this city.

The introduction to the series of articles consists of three pages and they are signed by William N. McVickar, who is Episcopal Bishop of Rhode Island. This is the first appearance of the Bishop in partisan politics since the well-remembered occasion on which the Journal referred to his connection with political matters. He is also the only person who, so far as the pamphlet shows, has any connection with the document or its issuance. The signatures of the Democratic politicians who are behind it do not appear.

This pamphlet, which contains the signature of William N. McVickar, has created feeling in every town in the state. The first town to take action has been Barrington, which in one of the articles is declared to be not untainted, a sufficient amount of money being expended illegally at the elections to put the town in the "doubtful" or "least notorious" class. This has aroused the citizens of the town, and they have, without regard to party, decided to challenge the bishop to produce the proofs necessary to substantiate the charge which is made virtually under his signature.

A meeting of representative citizens was held Thursday at the office of J. U. Starkweather in Providence. As a result Mr. Starkweather framed a communication to the Journal, in which there is an absolute and direct denial of the statements in the pamphlet so far as Barrington is concerned, and the bishop is challenged to produce the proofs. The bishop in his introduction says the articles reprinted furnish indisputable facts and figures and that the person writing them—a reporter for the Evening Post—has been animated by no other purpose than that of telling the truth as he found it.

The citizens of Barrington say that no politician has placed his name to this document which slanders and vilifies their pretty town. They say that the Bishop of Rhode Island has assumed responsibility for the correctness of the statements, and has over his signature certified to their truth. Now, they say, they insist that he produce his proofs.

After the communication had been framed, the leading citizens of Barrington were asked if they approved the action. Without regard to party, Democrats, Republicans and Prohibitionists affixed their signatures to a communication endorsing Mr. Starkweather's open letter and declaring that they would sustain him in his action. The signers to this include Isaac T. Barnum, Benjamin Norton and the other leading Democrats of the town, men who are recognized as eminent in the Prohibition party and Republicans who are known all over the state.

A delegation of Barrington citizens brought the communication to the Journal office. They appeared to have a thorough understanding of the situation, and said that regardless of the source from which the pamphlet came there was no politics in their action, as was evidenced by the fact that the movement was endorsed by almost every leading Democrat in the place. They said they had labored hard to create an attractive place of residence, and did not propose to sit down under the charge that money was illegally used at elections and that the town was in the "least notorious" class. The pamphlet had but one signature, that of Bishop McVickar, and with all due respect to his position they proposed to insist that he produce the proof of the charges to the truth of which he had certified.

The letter of Mr. Starkweather is as follows:

Barrington, R. I., Oct. 14, 1903.

To the Editor of the Journal:

Dear Sir: I desire to call attention through your columns to a pamphlet which has just been issued by Rt. Rev. W. N. McVickar, addressed to "The People of Rhode Island," entitled "A Disclosure of Political Conditions and an Appeal for Their Reform."

This pamphlet is largely made up of articles which have recently appeared in the New York Evening Post, and, as the writer tells in the introductory remarks bearing his signature, "is issued with the hope that it may arouse the people of Rhode Island to a realization of the corruption which so largely prevails in this time-honored commonwealth and bring about some concerted action for reformation." We are also assured by the writer that the articles thus reprinted, "are the result of a thorough and painstaking investigation by one who understands his work, who has been animated by no purpose other than of telling the truth as he found it."

After further enumeration of the many evils with which the political situation is surrounded the reverend gentleman suggests that the time is ripe for the inauguration of a reform campaign. Then follow a number of articles upon the subject of corruption and bribery and among them one bearing the following headlines: "A Corrupt State," "Review of the Venal Towns," "A Shocking Picture of Political and Social Immorality," "Many Villages Sunk in Poverty, Ignorance and Depravity." First on the list of such towns is Barrington, which we are told is "strongly Republican and tainted with corruption."

Notwithstanding its many attractions as a residential town and the fact, as the article puts it, that "a high average of morals prevails," we are informed that "a sufficient amount of money is expended illegally at the elections to put the town in the doubtful or least notorious class." In this category are some 20 of our towns, but as it is not my intention to consider the document beyond this point I shall not attempt to further reproduce its contents.

Every good citizen, without regard to party affiliations, must welcome any effort to purify our political atmosphere. Therefore with the general object which the bishop has in view I take no issue, but heartily wish him success in the movement he seeks to inaugurate, only regretting that the other parties, whom he tells us are equally responsible for the publication of the pamphlet, appear to have lacked the necessary courage to add their names to its signature and have allowed him to stand alone in the responsibility for its statements. What concerns and pains me and my fellow townsmen most deeply is the unfounded attack upon the good name of our beloved town. The fair name of a town should be as precious to its inhabitants as is a reputation for good character to the individual; therefore it is not strange that the above misstatement of facts regarding Barrington has aroused a widespread feeling of indignation.

I deny that Barrington is tainted with political corruption, and I respectfully challenge the bishop to produce the proofs necessary to substantiate the charge. I further affirm that during the past 20 years not one dollar, or one cent, has been illegally expended there at elections. If any town in Rhode Island can claim to be politically pure Barrington is most certainly the one to occupy that position. I therefore feel that it is incumbent upon the author of the pamphlet to at once publish the proofs demanded, or, failing to be able to do so, to admit the incorrectness of the statement regarding Barrington.

In further support of my position I inclose a letter received from a number of my fellow townsmen, representing the various political parties, Republicans, Democrats and Prohibitionists, all of whom have gladly joined me in the attempt to vindicate the good name of our town.

J. U. Starkweather.

The letter which was prepared and sent to Mr. Starkweather endorsing his action is as follows:

Barrington, R. I., Oct. 14, 1903.

Mr. J. U. Starkweather.

Dear Sir: After carefully reading the article in Bishop McVicker's pamphlet describing the political condition of Barrington, and having also seen your letter denying the statement that the town is tainted with corruption, we desire to sustain you in the position you have taken, and to record in most emphatic terms our denial of the charge.

Agreeing with you, we do not hesitate to affirm that no money whatever has been illegally expended in Barrington for political purposes during the past 20 years.

George T. Barker, Isaac T. Barnum, F. O. Field, Isaac F. Viall, John F. Richmond, O. L. Anthony, Ebenezer Tiffany, F. P. Church, Samuel F. Bowden, George L. Smith, B. W. Viall, Leander E. Peck, William T. Lewis, Jr., Charles F. Anthony, Frederick T. Jencks, William E. Colley, William A. Leonard, H. M. Gardiner, Alonzo C. Gardiner, Elmer K. Wilson, Benjamin Norton.

That this action of the people of Barrington will create a sensation throughout the state is apparent. It has long been the belief of some of the clergymen of the bishop's diocese that he has unconsciously been made the victim of a coterie of partisan politicians. In discussing this phase of the matter briefly yesterday the Barrington delegation said they did not care for that. They were proud of their town and didn't propose to have it maligned to benefit any political party or any candidate for office.

Of the signers to the endorsement of Mr. Starkweather's action, Mr. Norton is the Democratic candidate for representative, William A. Leonard is chairman of the Democratic town committee, Frederick T. Jencks is the Prohibition candidate for governor of the state, John F. Richmond is the present Republican representative, the name of the present Republican senator, Mr. Gardiner, is on the paper; Ebenezer Tiffany is one of the best known residents of the place, and in every way the signers are representative men.

STRENUOUS CREATORE.

Creatore has been called an acrobatic conductor, because of his nervous movements while conducting the band. That he does not show these peculiarities for effect, however, can be proved in many ways. He has been studied by the best musical critics in New York and Boston, as well as in many other cities. They all agree that he is fundamentally a great musical artist and that his physical manifestations only describe, in a language of his own, just what he wants his musicians to do, how he interprets the music, and how he wishes them to perform it. Victor Herbert says Creatore has so much temperament that it finds expression in his bodily movements, which are characteristic of the Italian race, and the critic of the Boston Globe explains that Creatore is simply a passionate nature; he throws reserve to the wind and abandons himself to the emotions of the music.

GLAD TO SEE NEWPORT AGAIN.

Both Sully and Murphy Speak Briefly at the Performance of "The Old Mill Stream."

Daniel Sully was greeted by a good-sized audience at the Opera House last evening, when he presented for the first time in Newport his rural drama, "The Old Mill Stream," written by Fitzgerald Murphy. The play has a simple but interesting story, the characters are natural, and the trials of the simple country folk are deftly handled. There are three love affairs interwoven in the play, and the main story is full of pathos and quaint humor. The part of Robert Ryan, "Uncle Bob," the central figure of all the various elements in the plot, who unravels all the tangles and brings happiness to all, is well suited to Mr. Sully's quiet style of acting, and he made, as in other plays in which he has appeared, a decided hit.

He was supported by a clever company. Harold LaCosta gave a particularly forceful characterization of Sam Wilber, an excitable young farmer; W. F. Kolman was excellent as Gus Shultus, Bertram Yost as Dick Flood and C. O. Wallace as Abe Shultus were good, Olga Brown gave a pleasing portrayal of Margaret Ryan and Virginia Crimm was successful in the difficult part of Gill Cooper, a child of the Catskills. The scenery and stage settings were excellent and added to the success of the performance.

At the close of the second act Mr. Sully received several floral tributes from his friends in the audience, and in response to continued applause made a characteristic speech, telling of his pleasure at being once more among his old friends and comrades in Newport, and of his appreciation of the kindly expressions of interest which he always receives here. He suggested that the author of the play, Mr. Fitzgerald Murphy, was also an old Newporter and could make a better speech than he could. Mr. Murphy appeared on the stage and spoke appreciatingly of the manner in which his play written for Mr. Sully had been received, and his gratification at seeing again the old familiar places and meeting old friends in Newport.

NEW YORK STATE'S GREAT GRAPE CROP.

"Contrary to the belief of most persons, the largest grape-growing region in the world is not the champagne district of France, nor the sunny valley of southern California. Western New York owns the title by virtue of 50,000 acres now given over to grape culture," said one of the largest grape growers in the state.

"In the Keuka Lake region of western central New York there are 30,000 acres in vineyards, and the other 20,000 acres are in the Chautauqua belt. The two districts are made one by a sort of grape isthmus which runs down toward the southwest corner of the state. The harvest in these vineyards will amount to nearly 7,500 carloads this year. That means more than 22,500,000 nine-pound baskets of grapes, or nearly three pounds of the fruit for every man, woman and child in the country.

"To harvest this gigantic fruit product calls for the services of between 6,000 and 6,500 pickers, most of whom are women. The women are preferred, because they pick the fruit more rapidly and pack it more neatly than men, who are only employed to do the heavier work of hauling, lifting and driving. Most of the girls come from the inland districts of Pennsylvania, northern Ohio, southern New York and even further away. A good picker usually gets from 80 to 90 cents a day when she boards herself, or $3 a week and board for working nine hours a day."

TELLS OF CASES OF EXTORTION.

Startling Confession of Henry Farley, a Walking Delegate.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—Henry Farley, a walking delegate, who is waiting trial on an indictment for perjury alleged to have been committed in testimony he gave during the trial of Samuel Parks, is understood by the World to have made a startling confession. Many cases are enumerated in his confession of walking delegates in this city and surrounding towns having successfully conspired to extort money from contractors and builders to avoid strikes or have them called off. The cases are related in minute detail.

Farley asserts that in one instance $50,000 was procured from W. E. D. Stokes to stop interference with the building of the Ansonia Hotel at Seventy-third street and Broadway.

The confession was made to District Attorney Jerome in the presence of several assistants. Its telling occupied many hours. Farley asserts that the perjury with which he was charged was committed at the instance of a prominent lawyer. It consisted in his swearing that Parks and he did not meet at any time during which the prosecution asserted Parks received $200 from a Brooklyn contractor to avoid a strike. Farley admits, it is said, that the money was given in his presence first in the form of a check, which was refused, and later in cash.

Farley was indicted after the Parks trial, and remained for some weeks in prison while his wife suffered from lack of the necessities of life. He was released on bail after the return of Parks from the Kansas City convention, and through an understanding with the district attorney's office his trial on the perjury case has been postponed until the next term of the court. He said his confession was given purely to relieve his conscience, and was only accepted by the district attorney in that spirit and with the distinct understanding that it did not involve immunity.

The district attorney is in possession of the name of the attorney in the case, together with the names of all the walking delegates alleged to be involved, and disbarment proceedings are promised in connection with the other developments.

HAY $130 A TON.

Many People Leaving Dawson for the Outside, Fearing a Severe Winter.

VANCOUVER, B. C., Oct. 17.—A special from Dawson says: Winter is closing in quickly and several thousand tons of freight will not reach Dawson this season. Freight charges are phenomenally high and prices of certain staples are going skyward. Hay in Dawson is selling for $130 per ton. Snow is several inches deep in the Mayo district and the streams are freezing.

The gold output will only be about a million less than last year, despite the extreme drought which cost the miners six weeks' loss of time. Many people are leaving for the outside fearing a severe winter. The number of those going out exceeds that of last autumn by several hundred.

Cholera at Bethlehem.

JERUSALEM, Oct. 17.—Cholera has broken out at Bethlehem. The town has been cordoned by troops.

The total value of contracts awarded on new building and engineering enterprises throughout New England for the week ending October 14, 1903, as compiled by the F. W. Dodge Company, approximates $1,907,000 as against $1,607,000 for the corresponding week last year, making a total of $37,009,000 to date this year as against $114,234,000 for the corresponding period in 1903, and $94,005,000 in 1901.
